In other words, I was focused on my intention while Eleanor was focused on the consequences.

They say it can be stress hormones, all sorts of things, but if it was just stress then half the people in London would be bald.

Covered up and protected by several cardinals" and claimed to have "sought help" from the highest echelons.